

Which kingdom is no longer recognised in the Linnaean system?

How is a species defined?

Why did Linnaeus create a system of classification?

At which stage would you expect to see an animal classified as a mammal?

Why was the publication of Systema Naturae so important?

Why were more levels added to the classification system?

Which kingdom is no longer recognised in the Linnaean system?

How is a species defined?

Why did Linnaeus create a system of classification?

At which stage would you expect to see an animal classified as a mammal?

Why was the publication of Systema Naturae so important?

Why were more levels added to the classification system?

Which kingdom is no longer recognised in the Linnaean system?

How is a species defined?

Why did Linnaeus create a system of classification?

At which stage would you expect to see an animal classified as a mammal?

Why was the publication of Systema Naturae so important?

Why were more levels added to the classification system?

Which kingdom is no longer recognised in the Linnaean system?

How is a species defined?

Why did Linnaeus create a system of classification?

At which stage would you expect to see an animal classified as a mammal?

Why was the publication of Systema Naturae so important?

Why were more levels added to the classification system?

Which kingdom is no longer recognised in the Linnaean system?

How is a species defined?

Why did Linnaeus create a system of classification?

At which stage would you expect to see an animal classified as a mammal?

Why was the publication of Systema Naturae so important?

Why were more levels added to the classification system?